The Horse and his Young Rider

There was once a young man who was always bragging about what a great horse rider he was. One day this young man was at the market when he saw a magnificent horse for sale.

He thought, "I am going to take that horse for a ride." He did not know that the horse had not been trained and was very difficult to control.

The young man climbed onto the fence and leapt onto the back of the horse. As soon as the horse felt the weight of the young man it reared up in the air and galloped off down the road. Nothing would stop the horse as it raced headlong down the road. The young man clung on as best he could. As he thundered down the road one of his friends saw him and called out.

"Where are you off to in such a hurry?"
He replied desperately,
"I've no idea, you will have to ask the horse".

The moral of this story is:
Act in haste and accept the consequences.
